PENTECOST SUNDAY

The story of the first Christian Pentecost began in fear and ended in joy. Or, more accurately, Pentecost has not ended yet. For today, we live in the time of this powerful Spirit. On that first day, the disciples crowded together in an out-of-the-way room, unsure and fearful. It took an unmistakable manifestation of God's power to shake off fear and replace it with bold proclamation. And so it came to pass. We are told in Acts that the descending Spirit came as a strong wind and rested over the disciples. The second reading tells us that the Spirit generates harmony and unity in the Church. No act of faith can be made, no good work accomplished, no ministry undertaken without the sustaining power of the Holy Spirit. All who are Church are one in the Spirit of unity. The people called to undertake this task and mission are called the Church - that's us: the faithful of St. Colman.

Pentecost Sunday A Family Perspective

Today's gospel tells us God actually wants to take up residence in your family, "We will come and make our home with you." Every family is called to be a tabernacle where God dwells. Is Jesus a permanent member of your family or a temporary guest? Today the promise is given. The choice is yours.
