THE SOLEMNITY OF THE MOST HOLY TRINITY

Christianity teaches us that salvation is a “group affair.” No one is saved because he or she has developed an intense personal relationship with God while ignoring the rest of the human community. In Christianity “to be saved” and “to be fully human” include the development of authentic relationships with other persons. It is mystically fitting that the God of the Christian Scriptures is not an “isolated individual.” Our God is a Trinity, a mysterious blend of three persons. The very nature of goodness, therefore implies “interpersonal relationships”, some sort of inner communication within the very substance of the divine. We can learn a lesson from the Trinity. Christianity demands that we support one another, depend on one another and love one another. Our God, the Creator, needs and supports the Redeemer and the Sanctifier.
