THE ELEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

One of the first characteristics of an authentic person is the ability to admit being wrong. That is not just grudgingly conceding the fact after a barrage of excuses. It is simply saying it, right out, without hesitation, without trying to find a fitting cliché to make one's guilt sound not-so-bad. How easy it is for us as human beings to try to excuse ourselves in the face of wrongdoing there is always a "good" excuse, an extenuating circumstance. In the face of this overwhelmingly human tendency, King David's behavior in the first reading this Sunday is extraordinary. To the charges made against him by the prophet Nathan, David does not hedge. He offers no excuses, makes no attempt to downplay the serious nature of what he has done. "I have sinned against God" is his simple reply. There is something wonderfully cleansing about it too. To be able to confess responsibility for an evil action is painful but also healing. At the conclusion of the reading, after David's admirable confession, the prophet responds "God has forgiven your sins." God admires authentic people. God wants to forgive us, but our excuses often block the way for the divine healing presence.

Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time: A Family Perspective

Jesus sat down for a meal and was caught between the weeping woman and the indignant Pharisee. Why is it tough issues always pop up at meals? No wonder we need antacids. Jesus focused on the positives, offering forgiveness to the woman and understanding the Pharisee.

Catholic Fortnight for Freedom. The U. S. Bishops have announced a two-week effort of prayer, study, catechesis and public action to emphasize both our Catholic and American heritage of religious liberty. Bishop Zubik is asking the faithful of our diocese to pray for religious liberty, to learn about this issue, and to act to promote for the protection of religious freedom. On Wednesday, June 26th, at 7:30 PM the Diocese will sponsor a panel discussion entitled, The Implications of Redefining Marriage in Bishop McDowell Auditorium, St. Paul Seminary, 2900 Noblestown Road. Panelists will be Very Rev. Lawrence DiNardo, JE, JCL, diocesan Vicar for Canonical Services; Dr. Theresa Farnan, part-time faculty, Franciscan University of Steubenville; and Mr. Robert Lockwood, diocesan Director, Department for Outreach and Engagement. There is no charge for this event. All are welcome. Visit www.diopitt.org for more information.

Sacred Heart Parish in Shadyside is offering tours of its historic church.
